DOCUMENTATION, VERIFICATION AND SUPERVISION CRITERIA

W-2 Activities that Count Toward the TANF Work Participation Rate	Documentation Documentation is the written record that substantiates or validates that assigned W-2 activities were completed. Note: Documentation must show hours of participation in activities assigned for each day of the week Documentation must be MAINTAINED in participant's paper file or scanned into participant's Electronic Case File except where a W-2 agency has multiple participants engaged in the same activity at one location. In those circumstances, the verification may be kept in a central location by the W-2 agency and made available upon request.	Verification Verification indicates that the W-2 agency has collected and stored the documentation showing that the hours of assigned activities were actually performed. Note: W-2 agencies are generally responsible for collecting verification items for group activities when multiple participants are engaged in the same activity at one location.	Supervision Supervision is provided by an individual who monitors the participant's daily attendance and can attest to the validity of the participation documentation submitted by the participant or on behalf of the participant. Note: The supervisor must sign the documentation.
Federal Category: Unsubsidized Employment <ul style="list-style-type: none">Working Full-time (WF)Working Part-Time (WP) Note: Includes Self-Employment	Initial hours of employment may be documented by an Employer Verification Letter or phone call to the employer if a verification letter cannot be obtained. Subsequent documentation will be completed via photocopies of the equivalent of two weeks pay stubs which must be collected not less than every six months and must be maintained in the participant's paper case file or the electronic case file. W-2 policy requires that any change, including a change in income be reported within ten calendar days of the change.	W-2 agency must verify actual hours of participation in unsubsidized employment. This will be done initially through the Employer Verification Letter or a phone call to the employer and subsequently through two consecutive weeks of pay stubs that are collected and reviewed not less frequently than every six months. Actual hours must include all hours for which the participant was paid. Documents, such as the Employer Verification Letter and pay stubs used to verify actual hours of participation must include the participant's name and/or social security number, the actual hours worked, and the name of the employer. Weekly scheduled hours should be calculated by adding total hours worked from two weeks of pay stubs and dividing that number by two. If the Employer Verification Letter is used to initially document hours of work, the projection should be based on the employer's estimate of weekly scheduled hours.	Daily supervision of individuals who maintain eligibility for W-2 cash assistance while in unsubsidized employment will be provided by the employer. Verification will be conducted through collection of two consecutive weeks of pay stubs at least every six months unless contradictory information is received sooner than the six month point.

Self-Employment (cont.)	For those in self-employment, the case manager may request copies of the business' previous year's tax records, current budget worksheets, monthly financial records, a copy of the business plan (if there is one), and/or the business tax ID number.	For self-employment, the monthly scheduled hours must first be calculated using gross monthly income less business expenses divided by the Federal minimum wage. Once the monthly projected hours are determined, the monthly hours should be divided by 4.33 to arrive at weekly scheduled hours. Hours of participation must be recalculated each time a change in income is reported or at least every six months.	For self-employment, the case manager signs the documentation.
